SHOT AND STABBED.

Fatal Duel Fought Between Two Prominent Kentuckians.

Colonel Swope Kills Colonel Goodloe at Lexington.

Gen. Goodloe Receives a Probably Fatal Knife Wound in His Breast.

The Sensation Which the Tragedy Created in Washington.

Fatal Affray in Kentucky.

Special to the Gazette.

WASHINGTON, November 8.—A duel was fought this morning between Colonel Swope, of Lexington, Ky., and Colonel Goodloe, a member of the national democratic committee and colonel of the Seventh Infantry, Kentucky militia, and Colonel Goodloe was shot through the body and killed. Colonel A. M. Swope, a prominent republican of Lexington, the aforesaid Gen. Roe was shot and fatally wounded.

The excitement in the postoffice corridor and yard when the other was first learned that each other fiercely. There were words followed, when both suddenly drew weapons Swope a pistol and Goodloe a clasp knife. As soon as the weapons were drawn Swope fired and Goodloe knocked the pistol down as it went off, the ball entering his abdomen on the right side. Goodloe then began stabbing his opponent in the breast with his knife. After several blows had been struck by Goodloe, Swope fired again, missing Goodloe. After firing a second shot Colonel Swope fell on his face, and weltering in his blood died almost instantly. On his person were found thirteen wounds, they being in his back, arms and breast. Immediately after the affray Colonel Goodloe went to a physician where his wounds were examined. He was perfectly cool and made disposition of his property in case of his death.

The cause of the difficulty was the contest made in the republican convention on May 1st, 1888, by Goodloe that fully two thirds of the Fayette county delegation in the convention did not support Swope. Col. Goodloe has been for years a prominent man in Kentucky politics. He was minister to Belgium under Hayes and is a member of the national republican committee, being chairman of the committee on speakers. He is forty eight years of age, married and has eight children. Mr. Swope was 47 years of age and unmarried. He was collector of internal revenue under Grant and Hayes.

At 11 o'clock Goodloe was resting easy. His physicians say his condition is more hopeful. He is not under arrest. Public sympathy is about equally divided but universal sorrow is expressed.

WASHINGTON, November 8.—Colonel Bradley this afternoon in response to a telegram asking for particulars is reported to have recently at Lexington received a message stating that Colonel Goodloe's wound was very serious, but not necessarily fatal. The intelligence of the tragedy and its probable fatal termination of the parties was a profound shock to numbers of persons in this city. Colonel Goodloe has many friends here. As a member of the republican national committee he naturally enjoyed the confidence of the chief public men in the republican party, and his courtesy and social talents gave him a warm place in the affections not only of those with whom he was in political accord, but of those with whom he differed on national affairs. By marriage he is related to Senator Beck, of Kentucky. When in the city he was a frequent visitor at Senator Beck's residence and here he met many democratic members of congress. The president knew Colonel Goodloe well and esteemed him highly. The news of this probable fatal shooting affected him to a most marked extent. The intelligence seemed to stun the president almost as though it had been a near relative. The look which he wore when he first fell to his seat and for a few minutes he moved nervously and alternately up and down. The subject is the one topic of conversation to night among public men and in public places.

Another Version.

DUBUQUE, Iowa, November 8.—Senator Allison returned this evening from the headquarters of the republican state committee, where he has been for the last two days, and he says the legislature will be republican by eight on joint ballot, possibly ten, as one district is very close. He has no fears of any combination between any of the republicans and democrats to defeat him. He refuses to be interviewed upon the shooting affray that had produced the sensation of Tuesday.

H. H. Hunt, editor of the Herald, this city, received the following dispatch from President Cleveland:

The people of Iowa are especially to be congratulated on their victory over fraud and superstition. The democratic state deserves the greatest credit.

Returns from every county in the state received by the Herald give Larrabee a majority of 7,172.

The Storm Abated.

SANTA FE, N. M., November 8.—The storm cleared and for the first time in days shining. While reports have been received of the loss of life reports come that several Mexican herders on the Leon, a small settlement south of town. No communication had been had directly and but seven different postoffices have arrived. Some anxiety is felt concerning the railroad driver who should have left Deming on Tuesday evening but has not arrived.

Reports from Grande to night give account of freezing, that of Joe Bowden, who was employed in herding a herd of cattle for Mr. Post. His horse gave out in driving him on the prairie about four miles from the nearest house. This he started to reach but was overcome by the cold before reaching it. He belonged in Raton. The depth of snow cannot be estimated. A snow plow pushed by two engines was stopped by drifts south of town to day and only after hours of shoveling was reached. The unknown report much difficulty encountered in different cuts and some places are completely

CRONIN'S CLOTHES.

The Murdered Doctor's Clothes and Instruments Found.

Found Near the Ditch Near Where the Body was Found.

The Clothes Identified by Mrs. Conklin.

The Prosecution on the Trail of the Conspiracy Case.

Special to the Gazette.

CHICAGO, November 8.—Dr. Cronin's clothes were found this afternoon near the catch basin where the body was discovered. They consisted of an overcoat, coat, vest, pantaloons, shirt and drawers, identified by Mrs. Conklin. The discovery has created a great excitement among the officers of the state. It was stated in court to-day that the coroner had a case of instruments were found near the catch basin not a hundred feet from where Dr. Cronin's body was thrown. They were covered with slime, but the instruments were more easily recognized as belonging to a physician's outfit. Lieutenant Koch as soon as he made the discovery at once started for police headquarters.

Chief Hubbard said the clothes and instruments are undoubtedly Dr. Cronin's. At this hour, however, two stories are afloat as to the place of discovery. "So far as we can learn," said Attorney Hines of the state, "the clothes and instruments were found at Buena Park, on the Chicago and Evanston road. I am not sure and workmen in excavating for a new building found the clothes and instruments buried. It is, however, possible that the first story of where the discovery was made is the correct one. I have not had time to fully investigate. One thing is certain, the clothes and instruments are found, and they have been fully identified as the property of Dr. Cronin. Who now will be bold enough to insinuate that the body found in the catch basin in that vicinity was not the body of the murdered Dr. Cronin."

The true story of the finding of Cronin's clothes was learned to night. Complaints had been made recently that the sewer at the intersection of Evanston and Buena avenues was running over, and to day workmen were sent to investigate the trouble. The cover was removed from the manhole in the center of the street and after a few minutes work with poles and hooks two valises were brought up, one a leather one and the other the remnants of a cheap paper one. In the leather valise was found Dr. Cronin's prescription book, with several prescriptions bearing his signature. The paper one dropped to pieces as it was pulled out and from it rolled a mass of tattered clothing, most of which had been cut in strips. The only garment remaining intact was the vest, which was in the center and which encircled the doctor's case of surgical instruments. The clothes, evidently, had been cut in the hope that they would soon drop apart and be borne away in the sewer.

The clothing, surgical case and prescription book, the latter two being marked with Cronin's name, were fully identified by the Conklins and others, as the property of the murdered physician. The most damaging of all the circumstances for the prisoners is the fact that the find was made only one block from the spot where the bloody trunk was discovered after it had been thrown hurriedly from the wagon, and only half a mile south of where the body was found in the catch basin. The paper valise is supposed to be the one purchased by O. E. Simonds, and to-morrow a clerk will endeavor to identify it.

A tragic event which occurred just in front of the court house, while everybody was examining these articles caused wild excitement. A shot was heard just at the entrance of Judge McConnell's court. A dozen lawyers and reporters rushed out and found stretched on the sidewalk the body of a large man revolver in hand, and his brains oozing from his skull. He was dead, and as no one could identify him it was at once presumed that his tragic death had some mysterious connection with the sensational discoveries of the day. Later he was identified, however, and it was learned that his name was Eiler Behm and that he had been for a time known to be partially insane. He doubtless suicided while laboring under mental aberration.

The Cronin Trial.

CHICAGO, November 8.—In the Cronin case the cross examination of Captain Schuller was continued this morning, but nothing new developed. William Nixon, who at the time of the murder kept a saloon near the Carlson cottage, testified that O'Sullivan entered the saloon between ten and eleven o'clock on the night of the murder, accompanied by two men. According to his best judgment he thought Coughlin one of the men, and thought the third man was Kunze. They talked together in undertones with their hands to their faces.

The first witness this afternoon was Andrew J. Monatt, a printer, who works for Mr. Stanton, the man who printed the business cards for O'Sullivan one of which was used to direct Dr. Cronin to his death, and he identified the card heretofore placed in evidence. On April 27th O'Sullivan called before all of the cards were printed and took some of them away with him. He also left instructions to give the rest to one of his men if he should call. Policeman Hoefig, desk sergeant of the East Chicago avenue station, where Detective Coughlin was stationed, previous to his arrest in connection with this case, testified that in the month of April he received a telephone message from O'Sullivan, who wanted to see Coughlin at his O'Sullivan's house that evening. When told of it Coughlin said "All right." On the first or second day of May he received the same message again, and again Coughlin said "All right, it is O'Sullivan, the ice man."

Policeman Calegge identified the foot marked portion of the floor from the Carlson cottage bed room as being the same as taken out by him. Ex Police Officer Hunkaler of Lake View, testified that on the night of May 12 about 12 30 o'clock he drove away two men, a tall one and a short one, who were standing on the sidewalk near the Carlson cottage, telling them that they had no business to be out at that time of night. The witness then walked past the cottage and noticed a bright light burning

There are no 60 or 80 feet streets, and narrow, 10-feet alleys, such as are found in other loudly advertised "Additions," with high sounding titles, where you pay high prices for lots, without duly considering that you are throwing away your money.

In the Alley Behind Every Lot in Parrish's Addition

There is a 3-inch Water Pipe, connected at Chestnut street with a 16-inch main: the Largest in the City's System. THE MAIN CITY DITCH, taking pure, clear water from the Fountain, runs just back of PARRISH'S ADDITION, and within a stone's throw of it.

YOU ARE SURE TO GET WATER

Hon. Seth Low has accepted the presidency of Columbia college. The following is the formal letter of acceptance

To Gerard Beekman, Esq.
Clerk of the Board of Trustees of Columbia College.

SIR—I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your official communication informing me of my election by the trustees as president of Columbia college. The honor is all the same that a summons to duty which I may not decline. I accept, therefore, the position to which I have been chosen, with grateful thanks to my colleagues for the culminating mark of their confidence and goodwill, and with the assurance that I will do everything in my power to justify their judgment.

If it is acceptable to the trustees, I should propose to assume the duties of the presidency at the second term, or about the first week in February. I am permitted to say by the courtesy of my old and valued friend Dr. Drisler that this date commends itself to him also as the best time for this new presidency to begin. With great respect I am, SETH LOW.

Since Mr. Low's acceptance of the presidency there has been considerable discussion of the difference of the qualities now sought in a college president, compared with those sought fifty years ago. Then, a college president was either a theologian or a teacher. A college president was supposed to give lectures in both mental and moral science. But the growth of our colleges has demanded that the head of them should be men of fine executive ability, rather than teachers. It does not do away with the old notion that a man occupying the position should be a scholar, but rather that he should be a teacher. Mr. Low entered political life so early and has led so busy a life during his early manhood that some people have thought of him simply as a business man. But on the contrary, he not only showed his scholarly tastes in college, but has never given up his studies since he entered upon his active business career. His election does not lower the standard so far as scholarship is concerned.

The profoundest explanations yet given for the republican reverses last Tuesday are contained in a Washington dispatch. This states that several republican leaders have already been to President Harrison and urged him not to delay longer certain removals which are contemplated. The president had decided to delay these removals until after congress met, but it is said that he will now act promptly. These statesmen who are advising the president seem to refer the reverses to delay in making these removals. There is something rather illogical about the position taken by those who are advising President Harrison in regard to the influence of patronage on elections. Cleveland, with patronage all in the hands of the republicans, carried the election in 1884. Cleveland, with all the patronage in his own hands in 1888, lost the election. In the elections in the fall of 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888, when the patronage was in the hands of the democratic party, the republicans showed more strength throughout the country than in 1889, when the patronage was in their own hands. If we can reason by experience at all, patronage in the main is a weakness to a party. It only political use is in the personal part of it which enables congressmen, senators and other high officials to pay political debts. But this, the party is not interested in. If we are to reason at all from experience, it is much more logical to say that if President Harrison had made less use of the patronage within his control, the party would have been stronger in the elections. We do not believe that President Harrison will take the advice spoken of above. He has already announced that he is too busy preparing for the meeting of congress to give any great amount of attention to appointments, and will only consider those for offices where the present incumbents will end their term of service during this month. The decision of President Harrison was a very wise one and we hope that he will adhere to it. The attention of the country has again and again been drawn to the large proportion of the time of our president, of the members of the cabinet, and of the members of both houses of congress used in meeting the demands of office seekers. It was said that Garfield stated that [illegible] of the time of members of congress was used in considering and pushing appointments. Yet President Garfield was not in public life when there was a change in administration which involved a complete change in the office holding class of the government. During his services in congress, the administration was always republican and there were no wholesale removals. If it took a third of the time of the members of congress then, it must take nearly all of the time now, for a complete change in all the office holders is to be made. The time is not far distant when people will wonder that we should allow our public servants, who have such vast interests to consider and determine to give so much of their time to the consideration of appointments—especially when it is considered that the efficiency of the service does not demand one in a hundred of the changes proposed. At the present time, the most important and trying duties which our representatives in congress have to determine is to settle the question of appointments. They not only give more time, but the subject, itself is more wearing than all other congressional work together. It is a matter of indifference to the business interests of this country whether one or the other party occupy the office so long as the business is well done; but it is of importance to the business interests of the country that congress and the cabinet pay more attention to our trade and shipping interests.

REV. ADA C. BOWLES.

An American Woman Who Has Lived to Preach.

[Special Correspondence.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—The Rev. Ada C. Bowles comes from the sturdy stock of New England, which gave to the republic its educational system. She was born in Gloucester, Mass., in 1846. She grew up with a passionate fondness for the sea and is, as she has always been, equally at home either in or on the water. She is an expert swimmer, and her undaunted courage and rare presence of mind have enabled her upon different occasions to rescue persons from drowning.

Nature gave her a sound mind in a sound body, and her early life among the rocks of Cape Ann gave her the well balanced physical development which resulted in a perfectly healthy womanhood. Acquiring rapidly and with ease all that was taught in the public schools of Gloucester, she was yet wholly unsatisfied with her attainments and pushed forward with different studies by herself. At the age of 15 she began to teach in the public schools. She continued in this vocation until she was 22, employing, meanwhile, such leisure as she could command in study and in writing for the press. She then married a popular clergyman, Rev. B. F. Bowles, pastor of the Universalist church, at Melrose, Mass.

Although by this marriage she became the stepmother of three children and later the mother of three more, she still found time for a variety of church work, including teaching an adult Bible class. Her success with this class led her to deeper theological study, under the direction of her husband. Mr. Bowles is a man who recognizes in his wife a talented human being, possessed of ability if not identical, at least equal with his own. He desired that his wife should be in all things his companion, and after having given her a thorough course in theology, he encouraged her to preach the gospel, which she had long felt called to declare.

She began in 1869 by supplying vacant pulpits in New England. In 1872 she was licensed to preach, and in a short time she was called to the Universalist church at Easton, Pa. While she was pastor of the church at Easton her husband had charge of the Church of the Restoration in Philadelphia. Mrs. Bowles was regularly ordained in 1874, and since has preached and lectured in most of the large cities of the United States.

REV. ADA C. BOWLES.

At present Mrs. Bowles is the nonresident pastor of the Universalist church at East Gloucester, Mass., while her husband has charge of the Universalist church at Abingdon, in the same state. In addition to her ministerial duties she lectures in various parts of the country under the auspices of the Women's Christian Temperance union, in which organization she has charge of the department of scientific temperance. She is also the national lecturer of the American Suffrage association.

In addition to all these duties Mrs. Bowles still finds time to be a notable housekeeper, and is ever a cheery, affectionate wife and mother. One of her family asserts that her sense of humor and unfailing good spirits are a constant source of brightness in the household. Indeed, so well ordered is her home that among her friends and comrades she is known as the "model housekeeper." One of her most popular lectures is "Strong Minded Housekeeping," which is an embodiment of her own experience.

Mrs. Bowles is possessed of remarkable mechanical dexterity and handles a hammer and saw as cleverly as a rolling pin. She is small of stature, with a strong, magnetic face and soft curling iron gray hair. She is lithe and full of exercise energy, and in speaking is not only enthusiastic and eloquent, but is clear and logical, with an intensity which appeals to the convictions. In listening to her one can but feel that the opinions she utters have been a light to her own steps.

Mrs. Bowles is very popular and can always sure of a crowded auditorium wherever she speaks. Indeed, the advice which John Wesley gave to a woman preacher in his day might fittingly be given her. The counsel of the quaint old ecclesiastic was: "Do not speak at any place where a man is preaching at the same time, lest you draw away his hearers." In all that she undertakes Mrs. Bowles is prompt and incisive, and in private life is as constant in good works as she is able in public, in inspiring others to all worthy endeavor.

Artificial Teeth

Surgical Reporter.

The finest artificial teeth are made of the best ivory, but the great majority of false masticators now in use are simply prepared hard porcelain. The following is one of the processes adopted for their manufacture: Fine calcined or roasted quartz powder, well ground flour spar, china clay, and a very little oxide of tin are very intimately mixed and ground together and afterwards made into a soft paste with water. This paste is poured into moulds of various kinds and sizes of teeth, and allowed to set. The plastic grinders are then transferred to a furnace, where they are "cured"—that is, half-baked or hardened. When this has been done they are covered with an enamel made of paste of spar and quartz, and finally subjected to an intense heat until they are sufficiently baked, when they are ready for the dentist.

TEACHERS IN CONVENTION.

Seventh Annual Meeting of the El Paso County Teachers' Association

The El Paso County Teachers' association is now in session in the city, having opened the seventh annual meeting in the fuller school building yesterday morning. The sessions are held in the room of grade six, and about seventy five teachers are present, representing nearly all of the schools of the county. Miss [illegible] of the schools of the Colorado Springs schools and vice president of the association presides.

The opening exercises consisted of songs, after which Miss Lottie Wise read a paper on writing, advocating the teaching of the best and simplest style. Miss F. Flansburg followed with a discussion of the principles set forth. Dr. S. A. Jones, of the High school, spoke on "The Compulsory School Law and Its Enforcement," in which he strongly endorsed the law and its enforcement. There was a general discussion following his remarks, after which the meeting adjourned until afternoon.

Immediately after meeting in the afternoon Miss L. E. Ozman explained the value of kindergarten work in the public schools, and illustrated it with a class of pupils. The little ones acquitted themselves nobly as they went through their exercises. Miss Lillian Bartlett followed in discussion, pointing out the benefits of kindergarten work as observed personally. The subject of Mr. J. B. Grafton's talk was "The Indifferent, How to Teach Them." The discussion was by Miss Lena Foster. Miss Etta Myers read the last paper, "Course in Reading for Teachers." Mrs. E. K. La Barthe lead the discussion. During the afternoon the secretary, Mrs. E. Cunningham of Colorado City, read the minutes of the last meeting. She reports a balance of $80 in the treasury. Mr. J. H. Dillenback, of the Colorado School Journal, was granted the privilege of the floor and stated the object and aims of his publication. Subscriptions were also opened to the paper.

FRED DICK'S LECTURE.

In the parlors of the Presbyterian church last night Hon. Fred Dick, state superintendent of public instruction, delivered his lecture, "The Citizen and the Public Schools." The audience quite filled the rooms and was largely composed of the teachers in attendance upon the association. The lecture occupied about one hour in delivery and was of the deepest interest to all. It showed study and contained matter that will be good for thought for those who heard it for some time to come. After pointing out many of the dangers and difficulties to the state through the schools he instructed the citizens in how they may best be of aid to the teachers in directing and encouraging them.

[illegible]

In the district court yesterday morning, Barry vs. Berry was dismissed at plaintiff's cost.

People vs. Jack Davis, [illegible] forfeited. The grand jury returned four true bills and one not a true bill.

People vs. Frank Sch[illegible], attempted rape, was set for trial this morning at 10.

People vs. Fritz Lounk, assault with deadly weapon, set for trial Nov. [illegible], at 9 o'clock.

James Robinson and A. N[illegible], the Florissant robbers, were arraigned and withdrew their former plea of not guilty and plead guilty. Judge Campbell will sentence them this morning and they will be taken to Canon City to-night. Having plead guilty their penalty may be not less than three nor more than fourteen years. The district attorney entered a nolle prosequi in the cases against them for larceny.

The case of the People vs. Bethel et al., defendants were ordered to enter into a new recognizance to keep the peace in the sum of $500.

People vs. Hugh Joyce, defendant discharged.

Perkins & Holbrook vs. Everett B. Curtis, hearing of testimony and judgment rendered in behalf of plaintiff for $32 80.

Court then adjourned until 9.30 this morning.

MANITOU NEWS.

The delegates to the National Grange convention, to be held in Sacramento, Cal., to the number of 190, came down from Denver yesterday morning, where they had been entertained for a day by the local grange of that city. They arrived in Manitou at 1.30, the majority registering for dinner at the Cliff. During the afternoon they drove about, up the pass and through the Garden of the Gods. Among the members are: Gov. Luce of Michigan, ex-Gov. Roby, of Maine Mortimer Whitehead, New Jersey, A. J. Rose, of Texas, chaplain, and James Draper, of Worcester, Mass., overseer of the National Grange. They went out of Manitou last evening at 6 30 going south to Pueblo and on to Salt Lake City.

The weather for the past week has been exceedingly unfavorable for the work of construction on the Pike's Peak railway. In spite of the snows which have fallen two and three feet deep in some places the work has gone forward, but was so impeded as to cause heavy loss to the contractors. The work above timber line is largely completed, and this being the most exposed part, the contractors anticipate no further hindrance to rapid progress.

Stock Market.

New York, November 8.—Stocks today were irregular but generally weak, though there was little impression made upon the prices outside of a few stocks which were objects of special bear manipulation. Sugar which had received some support of late was bought largely by the trading element and scored handsome advances. The close was heavy at close to the first prices for most of the list.

Too Much for Her.

I don't know much about dying for anybody, though I believe that a fellow wouldn't mind taking over his sweetheart's toothache or headache for a time. He might stay in bed and a few doses of quinine for the sake of his love, but I doubt if the ordinary kind of love would stand much more or even as much as I requested several times.

"Darling, are you ill?"

"Oh, my tooth aches so."

"Let me kiss it away."

"There. You've got it."

"Give me my hat. I'll godown to the dentist and have the tooth out."

That would be a very convenient plan for the girls, but I fear science will never discover a [illegible] and satisfactory.

He entered the railway [illegible] maturity, and was [illegible] clerk, paymaster, purchasing agent and assistant general superintendent of the [illegible] Rock Island and Pacific [illegible] and later general manager of the St. Paul, Minneapolis and Manitoba railway. There he remained till the present year, and after a brief interregnum was made president of the Santa Fe system. The name at present is only nominal, as the initial eastern point of the road is practically Fe City.

There will be practice foot ball at the Athletic grounds to day

A special meeting of the city council will be held Monday night to elect a city marshal

Miss Latta, of Lincoln, Nebraska, is the guest of her friend, Miss McMurtry, of 515 Cascade avenue.

Mr. A. C. Pearson, the well known musician, has just purchased of W. F. Hunt a Chickering four-oft grand piano.

The officers of the local lodge I. O. G. T. were installed by the district deputy, Mr. Joseph Parsons on Thursday evening.

Prof Geo. N. Marden, financial agent of Colorado college, and family, have returned from the east to remain some time.

The funeral of James Cassidy, of Colorado City, will take place on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock from St. Ann's church.

Invitations have been issued for a German, to be given by Mrs Whitbeck's dancing class in Weber hall, Wednesday evening, November 13th.

The city was heavily billed yesterday for a game of base ball next Monday with the Boston league club and the Denver club as the attraction.

Hoyt's latest and greatest success, "A Brass Monkey" will play their first engagement in our city at the opera house this evening. Standing room will be at a premium.

Mr. E. P. Wellcs proposes to enter his handsome St. Bernard dog Duke, in the bench show to be held in Denver in December. Duke will certainly take a high place at the exhibition

There will be no mass at the Catholic church to morrow morning, except the 10:30 a. m. mass. On Sundays, after to-morrow, the first mass will be at 8 o'clock and the second at 10:30.

Officer J. W. Chapman has been appointed city marshal to temporarily fill the place made vacant by the removal of Marshal Simmons. Ex Officer Wood is acting as Mr. Chapman's substitute.

Assessor Perkins has a number of copies of the pamphlet on Colorado, gotten out by Superintendent Skiff of the bureau of immigration, which he will be pleased to distribute to those who call for them.

The bazar for the benefit of the A. M. E church, announced some time ago by the GAZETTE, is to occur on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings of next week, in the church building, corner of Weber and Cheyenne streets.

We are glad to announce that Mr. Geo. W. Cable, the distinguished literateur—author of the "Grandissimo," etc., will read in Colorado Springs under the auspices of the First Congregational church Monday evening, November 25th. Mr. Cable will read selections from his creole dialect stories

Mlle. Rhea, the popular actress, has recently produced her new play, "Josephine, Empress of the French," in Chicago and other cities farther east. The play deals with the old theme of the love and divorce of Josephine and Napoleon, and is from the pen of A. R. Haven. The eastern press is loud in praise of Mlle. Rhea's production of the piece.

Those who attend the performance of "A Brass Monkey" at the opera house this evening will have an opportunity of hearing the celebrated trio from Verdi's "Attila," sung in the second act by Rosa Florence, Otis Harlan and J. C. Meroe. Also, the celebrated "Razzle-Dazzle" or "Wild Man from Borneo," which is said to be the funniest thing ever seen on any stage.

The funeral of Robert D. Silver, who died in this city last Tuesday, aged 46 years, occurred from St. Mark's Episcopal church, Denver, yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. Mr. Kloffer conducted a short funeral service at the late residence, 11th Platte avenue, yesterday morning before the remains were taken to Denver. Mr. Silver came to this city about one month ago with his family, hoping to recover his health. He had formerly lived at Lincoln, Nebraska, and was prominently known in business circles. He leaves a wife and four children.

There seems to be some misunderstanding in regard to the escape of the prisoners in the county jail, and the question has been asked several times how it was possible for so many prisoners to be in one cell. It must be understood that there were only three cells that were available for seventeen prisoners. It has been customary to lock six prisoners in two of the cells and five in the other. It is dark in the cells so that it is impossible to tell by looking whether they are all in or not. On the night in question three men slipped into the back cell from the middle one, making nine in all. The officer locking them up did not notice the change as it was the first time the trick had been played and he had no reason to suspect it. Nothing has been heard of the escaped prisoners so far.

At a meeting of the directors of the El Paso branch of the Colorado Humane society, held this week, it was decided to modify to some extent the conditions under which prizes are offered for an essay. There will be two prizes, each one of which will be fifteen dollars, one to be given to the best essay prepared by a student of Colorado college and the other to the best essay prepared by a student of the High school. The subject of the essay will be "The Humane Idea and Its Bearing on the Formation of Character." The essays are not to exceed three thousand words, and are to be sent to the secretary of the Humane society, Mr. F. B. Hill, not later than the 20th of December, 1889. Each essay is to be signed with a nom de plume and marked "College" or "High School." Accompanying each enclosed essay is to be a sealed envelope containing the name of the writer. The secretary will number the essay and also the envelope containing the name. He will retain the envelopes and send the numbered essays to the judges. The judges will declare the winning numbers at a public meeting called for the purpose, when the names of the prize winners will be made known, and in the following order: First the college prize essay, which the author shall read, age, and the high school prize essay which the author shall also read. It is proposed also to have other essays of merit read, and they will be given alternately, first college and then high school. These essays are to be read by the authors if present. It will not be announced to whom the prizes are awarded before the meeting, as the judges will only have the essays, and the secretary, when the number of the essay is announced, will open the envelope containing the name and read it
